First-time entrant wins show's Grand Aggregate

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

This was Delores Mohyluk's first year of entering the Elk Point Agricultural Society's annual Horticulture and Craft Show, and show chairman Donna Bassett says the newcomer is "hooked on this show." She may well be even more eager to enter next year, after winning the Grand Aggregate plaque and $50 cash prize sponsored by Gail Havener, in addition to section aggregate prizes in Baking, sponsored by Elk Point Co-op, House Plants, sponsored by Moe's Gardens and Greenhouse, Flowers, sponsored by Rona, and Vegetables, sponsored by B & R Eckels.

Millie Orr was the runner-up in the Grand Aggregate race, winning $30 from the Ag Society, as well the section award in the Seniors division, sponsored by Hahn Welding, and split the award in the Yard Art section, sponsored by E-Can, with Donna Bassett, Verona Lea Flanders and new entrant Ashley Bristow. Bassett said this is the first time there has ever been a four-way tie in any section of the fair.

Third place in the Grand Aggregate went to many-time entrant Lillian Balazs of Cold Lake, who won $25 from the Ag Society, as well as the Knitting and Crocheting section, sponsored by Apple Drugs.

The show also has a Junior Aggregate award, and this $25 cash prize went to Elizabeth Orr, who is following in her grandmother's footsteps with section wins in Junior Knitting and Crochet, Junior Photography, Junior Arts and Crafts, Junior Vegetables and Junior Sewing, all sponsored by the Ag Society, Youth Creative Writing, sponsored by the Elk Point Review, and Grains and Hay, sponsored by Wozniak Bulk Fuel.

Other new entrants were also on the section winners' list. July Ockerman won the Arts and Crafts section sponsored by Elk Point Insurance, Norine Kim won the Photography section, sponsored by Home Town Grocers and Greg Grabowski in the Beer section sponsored by Kudu. Danny Cardinal split the Junior wins in two categories, Junior Flowers, where he shared the honours with Rhianna Bjorkman, and Junior Baking, shared with Katerina Shapka and Samantha Urquhart.

Rhianna Bjorkman also won the Junior Fair section, sponsored by E-Can, and Katerina Shapka won the Junior Creative Writing, sponsored by the Elk Point Review.

Friends, partners join in Frog Lake Powwow

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

A gathering of Frog Lake First Nations' friends and partners was an integral part of their 2008 Powwow, with representatives of Husky Energy, Buffalo Resources Corp., Canadian Natural Resources Limited, Frog Lake Energy Resources Corporation, and a number of other partners joining Grand Chief Wayne Monias, former Minister of Indian Affairs Bob Nault, Frog Lake Chief George Stanley and his council and other dignitaries in a solemn ceremony prior to Saturday's grand entry.

John Lau, president and CEO of Husky Energy, was made an honorary chief of Frog Lake in a moving ceremony, and later signed a consultation and protocol agreement with Chief Stanley. Watch for further details of the agreement in our upcoming Oil and Gas special section in September.

The newly-crowned Honorary Chief

Earth Child, John Lau, presented Chief Stanley with a $25,000 endowment from Husky to support education at Frog Lake, while Bill Trickett, president and CEO of Buffalo Resources Corp., presented him with a buffalo carving and noted that Buffalo is firmly committed to the community's new wellness centre. Carrie Rawlake and Roger Fontaine of CNRL presented a $3,000 donation toward the powwow. Representatives of Whisper Creek Homes presented blankets to the chiefs and council and said it was their tradition to give back to the communities that support them.

The dignitaries later led in the powwow grand entry, featuring countless dancers of all ages, representing First Nations far and near, all dressed in their finest costumes and ready to show off their prowess in this incredible and intensely colourful display of tradition and culture.

Two players represented our town in baseball, Dylan Berg and Jordyn Wozniak. Track and field was represented by Kelsey Vinge. In fastball Taylor Jenner, in soccer, Brendan Bishop and Tyson Proskiw, in football Colton Hymanyk and some others..... But unfortunately for Harrison "Dirty Harry" Maas, he was injured at practice two days before the event and unable to compete in football as planned due to some serious damage to his ligaments. Still waiting for results from our competitors as of press time.

And here's another interesting story for your info; John McWhae and his son Colin left Calgary this past weekend on bicycles peddling all the way to Muriel Lake, and should be going through Elk Point on Thursday.

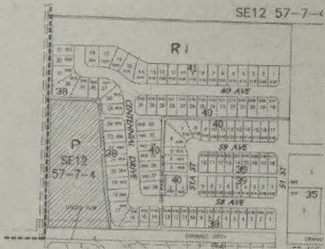

And now for the K.A. Campbell quote of the week. "I don't room with him; I room with his suitcase." Last weeks answer to- "It's a great day for baseball. Let's play two." - Ernie Banks. Do you have any scoops? Now you can email them to sportshound007@hotmail.com

Adult Creative Writing, also sponsored by the Review, went to Jennifer Van der Hoek (formerly Flanders) of Red Deer.

Another many-time winner, Ina Gillespie of Cold Lake, won the Empress Restaurant award in the Canning section.

Verona Lea Flanders was busy with the Quilt Exhibition all weekend, but not too busy to enter the Quilting section, where she won the section award sponsored by E-Can, and the Sewing section, winning the B & R Eckels award.

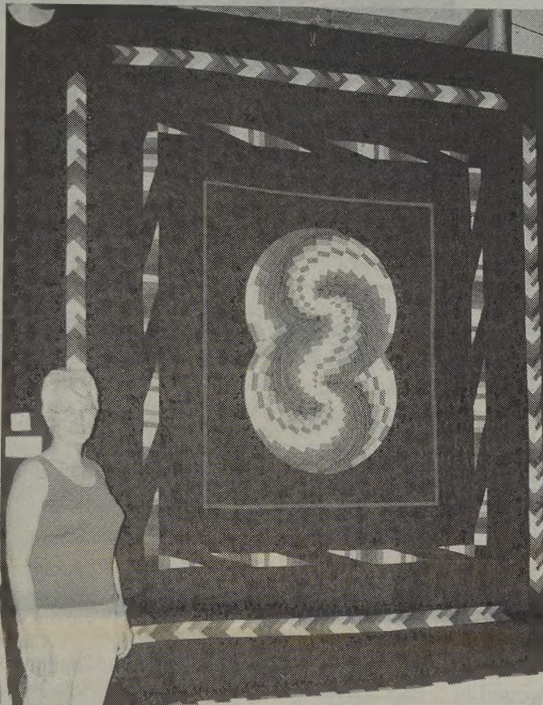

Laverne Wilson won the Fresh Fruit section, sponsored by Woody's Trophy and Gifts.

A marvelous collection of vintage aprons was a highlight of the Quilt Exhibition, even though Flanders said, "I just decided this week to do it. So I phoned some people I hadn't gotten quilts from yet, and asked, 'Do you have...'" and this is the result." Sixty-seven aprons stretched across the arena, from practical to elaborate, tiny-tot size to some that clearly belonged to a beloved grandmother.

The People's Choice award from among 34 large quilts went to Juliette Langevin, and from among 54 smaller quilted items to Vicki Brooker. Thirty-two denim creations, both quilted and non-quilted, were also on display, along with three works-in-progress.

Next year, Flanders says, the highlight display will be kitchen linens, such as tablecloths, tea towels, potholders and other related items. "It will be fun to have the old ones," she adds.

Bassett said in closing that there was a good turnout for the show, with an increase in entries for the majority of categories. "I hope that trend will continue." There was only one entry in the Beer and Wine Making section, and only 12 in the Creative Writing, but Bassett said the committee will leave those sections in for the coming year, to see if entries increase.

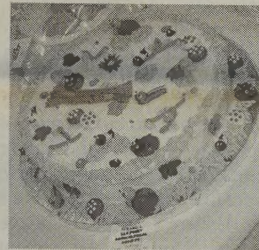

Juliette Langevin's quilt, with a colourful swirl set off by a dark blue background, won the People's Choice award for large quilts.

Vicki Brooker's Hummingbird Garden lap quilt won the People's Choice award for smaller items.

Wall-to-wall aprons were a special feature of this year's Quilt Exhibition.

Margaret Bayduza won a first for this cute cake.

Hanging in for the long haul

Elk Point's Horticulture and Craft Show was held this past weekend, and this weekend, the Elk Point Oilmen's Association will hold their 25th annual Oilmen's Golf Tournament.

Both of these events have been held year after year, with a large group of volunteers organizing and carrying out the events. Sometimes this has not been easy - gardens have been shredded by hail days before the fair, up to four inches of rain has dumped on the golfers, and the ups and downs of the economy have made it difficult for the sponsors to provide prizes for either event. However, there have been just as many good years, when gardens have been prolific, flowers have bloomed their best, and the sun has shone brightly on the Elk Point Golf and Country Club all weekend.

Whether these events have been a roaring success, or a bit on the iffy side, the committees have persevered, members assuring each other that "next year will be better," and as the planning went on, new innovations came about, and the events improved and evolved. Even when it might have been expected that volunteers would throw up their hands and quit in frustration, they took a deep breath and carried on.

Thanks to the volunteers who keep on for the long haul, and provide these two excellent events every August. Keep up the good work, and congratulations!

WAY BACK WHEN...

Goodwill, cattle, 'county Mountie'

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF AUGUST 12 IN...

1988

Elk Point's official goodwill ambassador, Sid Holthe, came to town council bearing gifts and greetings from the City of Elk Point, South Dakota, which he had received on a recent visit to our namesake community south of the border. Bagpipers donned volunteer fire department coats and led the parade in pouring rain as Clandonald held their annual Country Fair.

1993

Elk Point and District Agricultural Society's first livestock show for many decades was a huge success, with 11 steers competing for $6,100 in prize money in the Classic Steer Stake, and 11 heifers also in the judging ring for major cash prizes. Member of Parliament Deborah Grey exchanged wedding vows with Lewis Larson at Dewberry Community Hall.

1998

A "County Mountie," RCMP Cst. Catherine Bedard, was on patrol, working with the County of St. Paul to ensure the safety of rural residents. Kuhn's Collectibles opened its doors in the former Elk Point Roman Catholic Church, providing a picturesque setting for its eclectic collection of antiques and mementos of yesteryear.

2003

Elk Point's Physician Recruitment Committee announced that they were "happy to report we have been in constant dialogue with a doctor from South Africa... who has expressed a keen interest in our town." A display of 47 quilts highlighted Bench Fair '03, while Lillian Balazs of Cold Lake took home the fair's Grand Aggregate award.

Fear and anger

According to my old psychology text book, it states that fear and anger are two of the strongest emotional states. Whether learned or innate, anger and fear arousal begins with the perception of drive-arousing stimuli; the autonomic nervous system is activated and epinephrine is secreted into the blood. In other words, both the emotion of fear or anger are aroused by external stimuli or the thought of them and are highly subject to learning both with respect to cues that evoke them and the way in which they are expressed in behavior. The angry person may not actually attack the source of his anger, but he senses a desire to destroy or injure whoever or whatever is making him angry. Thus it is the perception of the situation that determines the kind of emotion they will feel. Physiological arousal in anger seems to energize the attack response and to intensify aggressive action. Our fear and anger may thus be maladaptive when we have no adequate channel of discharge for the increased energy and tension.

What has caused me to check my old psychology text book? The month of July and warm weather seem to bring our people who insist on exhibiting negative destructive and vandalism type of behavior. In July of 2007 and now in July of 2008, downtown merchants were hit with anger related behavior that brought destruction to their property. Not necessary by the same people, but it was also noted that vandalism occurred to private property during the month of July. What this does to residents is create a feeling of fear. Therefore one can conclude both the emotions of anger and fear is present.

The Elk Point Review publishes a variety of opinions as a contribution to debate on matters of public concern. Unsigned editorials express the view of this newspaper's editorial board which includes the Publisher and the Editor. Signed pieces express the view of the individual writer.

EASTHOPE
from the FCSS desk

You know in Biblical days it states: "And they durst not steal for fear of law, for such were punished; neither durst they rob, nor murder for he that murdered was punished until death." Yes, I know it is many years since those times ... but oh my!

When you try to analyze what is happening in our community, it is becoming obvious we can't sit back and only talk about it. A change needs to take place so we can feel safe once more in our community!

For example, one of the vandalism acts that occurred was on a vehicle parked in a backyard and it received painting of graffiti on it. When looking at that situation one comes to the conclusion it had to be premeditated. The person or persons had to plan to have paint to do this act. The word usage they used was what our parents taught us were "bad words".

Thus when you put all of this together, an angry person chose to make the attack not necessary on the source of his anger, but he sensed a desire to destroy whatever was making him angry. Whatever the "bad words" usage represented to him had to be expressed permanently. The problem is this person is not exploring the accuracy of his perception or any other ways to deal with his perceived problem. The question to ask of this person is: "Has what you did made a difference?" The answer is probably no. Therefore, the anger emotion will occur again. Thus, the fear in the community is that this person will strike again.

As a community the question becomes: "How do we get a handle on this and how do we deal with it?" The emotion of fear is certainly out there. It seems like we can't decrease the emotion of fear unless we do something about the persons who feel they can use their angry emotions to destroy. If no change is made, others will copy the same behavior because they believe no punishment or consequences will follow. In other words, this negative angry destructive behavior has to be stopped or it will grow. The result will then be that we will not be living in a safe community.

News from Heritage Lodge

By HEATHER PAQUETTE
Activity Director

July started off with a bang! That would be the sound of the fireworks on July 1! Some of the Lodge residents and myself had a very busy Canada Day. We kicked off with the parade, where we won two first prizes – one for Adult Organizations and one for the theme. It is wonderful to know our efforts are appreciated. Then the Bad Actors drama group performed publicly on the stage for the July 1 program to giggles and glee from the crowd.

On July 3 we enjoyed a demonstration of the Wii game by Tammy and Andrea from the County of St. Paul FCSS. On July 4, we traveled via armchairs across North America by train, enjoying barbecued salmon for dinner. On July 8, six residents and myself ventured out to Millie Orr's cabin for a delicious lunch and a wonderful visit. Preparing for and having our yard sale on July 18 kept us busy for a while with gathering and pricing. We had some wonderful donations from our families and friends and we appreciate those very much. We also had a draw for a handmade quilt made by Hazel Hannah. Marion John was the lucky winner and the envy of many of us.

Musical entertainment this month consisted of Andy and the boys on July 16, Gary and John on July 23. On the evening of July 21, we had our farewell entertainment from Bob and Emily Thompson. The residents all loved to hear them sing and play. We presented them with a Heritage Lodge mug and an "elk"/moose look-alike stuffed animal to remind them of us and to wish them well on their new adventures in Saskatchewan, and told them that any time they wanted to do a return engagement, they would be more than welcome.

Thursday, July 24 found seven of us enjoying the Vermilion parade and fair. On July 31, we ventured out to Stoney Lake with the Vilna group to enjoy a picnic and a visit. But my, oh my, it was a windy, cold day. That was unfortunate because we had to cut our visit shorter than we would have liked.

In August, we look forward to 'Haying in the 30s,' a trip to Lloydminster, a game of mini golf and a wiener roast with Dick Millar at the golf course. Armchair travel will consist of a trip to California complete with a beach party in the afternoon. I have four prizes for best costumes. On Aug. 21 we will have a presentations by Mary Jane Syorid about seniors' programs. Our August birthdays will be celebrated on Aug. 26 because we have a Personal Touch sale on Aug. 27. On Aug. 29, we will do a 'walk and talk' trip to one of the coffee shops in town. Volunteers are being rounded up and more will be needed to help with the wheelchair residents. Musical entertainment will be provided by Mel Magnusson on Aug. 1, Bob and Emily on Aug. 6, John and Gloria on Aug. 11, the Mennonite singers on Aug. 24 and Gabe on Sundays at 3 p.m.

The End of Era

By CARL FAKELEY
Review Contributor

For the first time since it opened 60 years ago, the Windsor Salt Plant in Lindbergh is producing salt without a Fakeley on the payroll.

One of the members of the crew that helped build the plant in 1947 was Alf Fakeley. Alf began working at the plant when it opened in 1948 and worked there for 26 years.

On May 22, 1963 Alf's son, 23-year-old Gordon Fakeley started working at the Salt Plant, for the second time. He worked on a road construction crew for a while, but had worked at the Salt Plant during high school, a few years before. This was the beginning of a long and dedicated career.

Gordon worked in virtually all areas of the plant. Most recently he worked as a gas well tender, a position he took over from Daniel Allen 26 years ago.

Gordon has seen many changes at the Salt Plant over years. When he started working there, he joined over 100 employees. Today there are only 30. This is primarily due to the modernization that has taken place over the years. One person today can do the work of several people.

Some of Gordon's accomplishments were his two million accident free kilometers and 45 years of service. In a world where if a person happens to have a sniffle they call in sick, Gordon had only three sick days in his first 42 years of service.

As an award for the safety points earned by Salt Plant employees Gordon received a GPS system. Perhaps this means that he and his wife Deanna will be doing some traveling over the next few years.

When Alf had been retired for as many years as he worked at the plant, he said that he and they were finally even. Gordon will be well into his 100s before he is even with the Salt Plant. Gordon's last day of work after 45 years of service was July 31. As Alf would always say, "Keep buying salt; it keeps my pension coming in." I suspect this would apply to Gordon as well.

Co-workers celebrate

Many former co-workers joined Gordon Fakeley and his family on Saturday at the Windsor Club as he celebrated his retirement, and son Carl, who emceed the luncheon, asked them how many years they had spent at Canadian Salt, noting that he had worked there one summer during his university years. He joked that he had found the pay better there than his first year of teaching.

Many former salt plant workers called out the length of their employment, ranging from summer employment, like Carl's, to well over 40 years.

Everyone enjoyed a fine lunch and a slice of Gordon's retirement cake, along with reminiscences about their experiences of years gone by, when together they had produced "The Salt of the Earth."

Intense camp experience yields life lessons

By JANANI WHITFIELD
Journal Staff

Reflecting back as they sit and enjoy the smell of the cook-out and the lake stretching before them, the youths agree: it wasn't always easy, but their stint at a two-week youth career camp was worth it.

The camp for the youth of Fishing Lake Metis Settlement had its wind-up last Friday at Riel Beach, with the youths having a chance to check out some of the soapstone carving work they'd each done at the camp, while enjoying a chat, entertainment and a barbecue.

Levi Flamond, a talkative and easy-going 17-year-old, notes that there was "quite a bit of drama" during the two weeks, with people tottering on the verge of fighting and others just dropping by the camp and having to be escorted out. "It just worked its way out," he says, shrugging calmly.

After spending two weeks in close proximity with one another, people just learned to get along, he and fellow youth Marlon Lacombe agree.

"When we came here, some people were worst enemies. By the end of it, they were friends," says Marlon. And while some youths weren't interested in participating in the activities, such as baseball, eventually they got bored of just sitting and watching other people enjoy the games and joined in, he says. By the end of the camp, the youths realized something about cooperation.

"Even people that don't like each other can learn to work together," says Levi.

That was exactly one of the aims of the camp, according to Dawn Deschamps, an organizer for the camp who works in employment services at Fishing Lake. "We were trying to teach the kids that we can all work together, even if we're different."

Ordinarily, Fishing Lake offers a summer career camp where kids learn about writing resumes and cover letters. But this year, organizers decided to expand on the camp, holding it outside at Riel Beach with kids spending some of the nights in tents and teepees. On top of resumes and letter writing, kids got to enjoy an added cultural component, for instance, learning about the history of the settlement and trying their hand at soapstone carving. They also attended workshops on pertinent issues such as co-dependency, sexually transmitted diseases, teenage pregnancy and substance abuse.

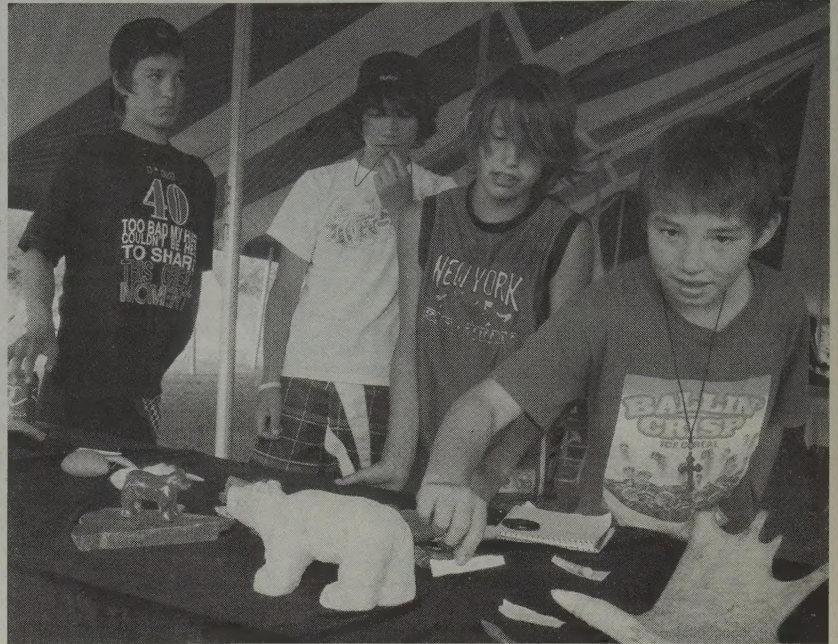

There had been some doubt that the organizers could pull the event off with only three weeks of planning and with such a diverse mix of kids and personalities, says Deschamps, adding, "We had some ups and downs."

But at the end of the day, the camp worked out.

"Some people said we wouldn't make it. But we made it," she says. "And I am so proud of these kids, each and every one of them."

The students came out with some revelations of their own. Levi, for one, learned he'll need to upgrade his high school education and graduate from Grade 12.

"I thought all I needed was my Grade 10," he says. But the young man will have to go further with his education to get into a culinary school and realize his dream of becoming the owner of his own restaurant. "That's my lifelong goal," he says, explaining he plans to move through the restaurant ranks before opening his all-day breakfast joint, which he's already dubbed as Levi's Good Morning Breakfast.

"And after that, when the restaurant opens, that's what I'll be doing for the rest of my life," he says, with the sureness of a youth who knows what he wants and who now, after a two week immersion in the world of the future, knows how to get there.

That vision and confidence was something that Fishing Lake councillor Darren Calliou was hoping would develop for the youth as a result of the camp. "If the kids can see a future, and they can see it in their own way, I think that's the biggest thing for them."

Shop, eat and experience Alberta's local food

The Local Market Expansion Project has grown out of a number of initiatives such as Dine Alberta, ag tourism, regional cuisine, farm direct marketing and farmers' markets. A strategic plan has been formulated around the increasing demand for products and experiences from local markets and the opportunity involved in this trend to help this sector of Alberta's agriculture industry grow and progress.

This project is intended to offer farmers opportunities to gain knowledge and skills required to fulfill these markets, broaden their market access, meet and partner with other like-minded producers and stakeholders, and ultimately capture enhanced profit at the farm gate. Industry partner groups also benefit from this project as a win-win opportunity to meet common goals and provide benefit to mutual client groups.

"There are four strategies based on consumer trends - healthy, local, green and convenient," says Sharon Stollery with business diversification in Alberta Agriculture and Rural Development. "These trends are really driving consumers today."

The four strategies that make up the Local Market Expansion Project include:

- attracting new entrants to the industry and working with producers already in the industry to enhance their business skills
- building alliances so that many smaller farms and producers can work together to maximize their success.

- facilitating programs that drive consumer awareness - programs such as buy local or others that all members of this sector can fit under
- identifying regulatory barriers that could impede this sector and taking steps to remedy those barriers

"There are a lot of activities associated with this project already well underway," says Stollery. "Programs such as the agri-preneur scholarship are expanding, and resource development for food safety and pricing are being worked on. We are working with existing provincial associations and regional groups to help them form beneficial alliances. The team is also working with other partners, such as Travel Alberta and Growing Alberta, to develop a culinary tourism alliance to concentrate on the burgeoning opportunities in that area."

Research focused on consumer demand and a benchmark project to determine where this Alberta industry currently stands are underway. Knowing where the industry is at is a first step in determining its potential. The program will also address industry or regulation barriers and update guidelines.

Welcome to the 25th Annual Elk Point OILMEN'S GOLF TOURNAMENT

August 14-16, 2008

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

A big celebration is about to partake at the Elk Point Golf Course, which could only mean that the Elk Point Oilmen's Golf Tournament is about to commence. On behalf of the E.P.O.A., I would like to send out a warm welcome to all, for this year we are celebrating our 25th ANNUAL GOLF TOURNAMENT! It seems like just yesterday that we all, or at least some of us, were attending the 1st annual golf tournament.

On a milestone such as this, there are so many people to thank. Let me begin with our community, who every year, seems to go that extra mile for us to make the atmosphere so enjoyable and comfortable for all. Without the generosity from the many sponsors, donors, volunteers and businesses (old and new), we would not be able to hold such an event every year, never mind for 25 years. THANK YOU SO MUCH!! Let us not forget the Elk Point Golf Course (Ian, Bea and staff). We appreciate the long hours you put into preparing everything for our festivities. Your hard work is and will be noticed in the forthcoming event, thanks to all.

Now to all participating golfers, your scores have all improved from last year. Your fellowship, companionship and camaraderie will be in top form. And the reminiscing of last year to this year will of course be at its best. To the E.P.O.A. golf committee, I know the job you fellows have done and the effort put into this year's function will again do us proud.

In closing, I wish the best to all golfers and non-golfers. Enjoy celebrating with us, our 25th golf tourney. Have fun, but remember, please do not drink and drive for we have shuttle service to accommodate all. We want everybody to get home safely to be able to return next year.

Don Mudryk
President
E.P.O.A.

Frog Lake Powwow

Eagle staffs lead the way for a long lineup of dancers in the Grand Entry at the Frog Lake Powwow on Saturday, Aug. 2

A huge number of visitors from across North America gathered for the event and took part in the dancing competitions, hand games and other traditional activities.

Frog Lake's new Honorary Chief, John Lau, is crowned with his ceremonial feather headdress.

Chief George Stanley and his council received colourful blankets as a gift from a business supplying housing to Frog Lake First Nation.

Lovely young ladies in traditional dress paraded gracefully in the Grand Entry.
